Cyberbullying

Probably the hottest issue on school campuses today is the topic of cyberbullying. Startling numbers of youth and young adults are tormenting one another on social networking sites and across the Internet, and the scars being left on young psyches are deep and often ineradicable. This presentation, designed for middle school student audiences, not only looks closely at the problem of electronic bullying, but talks to kids about how they can tackle the crisis themselves. Bullying itself is defined and described, together with solid, eye-opening facts on how predators target juveniles on the Internet. Video-filled, interactive and kid-oriented, this is a presentation (about 50 minutes in length) that may just help save young lives.

Latest Trends Among Youth

This is the one presentation adults need to see most. There are thousands of ways young people today can get into trouble, and they seem to be taking advantage of all of them. Plus, those methods of self-endangerment seem to change daily. In this hour-long PowerPoint slideshow, you will gain a bird’s eye view of the world of juvenile mischief and mayhem in the 21st century: everything from social media misdoings, to the latest fads in self-intoxication, to how human trafficking is getting on schools campuses, to how gangs and gang tactics are morphing before our very eyes. Unless you are on the front lines of law enforcement, you will be shocked and surprised by what the little ones are up to – often right under the noses of their parents and teachers.
