Supervisor Derry Provides Online Links to Assistance Programs

Site serves as a repository of information for those impacted by the economic downturn

SAN BERNARDINO, CA – Supervisor Neil Derry recently added a section to his official Web site to include links to various programs and information for constituents who have been negatively impacted by the economic downturn. The Web site can be found at: <http://www.sbcounty.gov/bosd3/>

The “Other Assistance Programs” section includes information about assistance programs available at various utilities, job training and food banks. Additional information about housing and shelter options are also available.

“The key to helping those in need is providing them with accurate information about available resources,” Supervisor Derry stated.

The Web site will be updated to include programs and resources that are brought to the supervisor’s attention. Supervisor Derry invites the public to share any information about programs that might be of use to our residents by calling his office at: (909) 387-4855.
