LAFCO 3076 is a proposal to consolidate the San Bernardino Valley Water Conservation District (Conservation District) and the San Bernardino Valley Municipal Water District (Valley District). The territory is shown below:

Both Districts are presently located within the “Upper Santa Ana River” basin, in the eastern portion of the San Bernardino Valley, which is located in the southwestern portion of San Bernardino County.

The Conservation District is approximately 77.9 square miles in size and is generally bordered on the east by a combination of parcel boundaries and full and partial section lines within portions of the Cities of Redlands, Highland, San Bernardino, Loma Linda and Colton, excluding the area of the Santa Ana River, from a point near the Guthrie Interchange easterly to a boundary east of the State Highway 30/210 bridge. The Conservation District boundaries are entirely within the existing boundaries of the Valley District.

The Valley District includes approximately 352.2 square miles, which includes the 77.9 square miles of the Conservation District. The Valley District area is generally bounded by the Sphere of Influence boundary of the Inland Empire Utilities Agency (formally known as the Chino Basin Municipal Water District) on the west, the Crestline-Lake Arrowhead Water Agency and the Big Bear Municipal Water District boundaries on the north; section, quarter section and half sections lines on the east; and parcel boundaries along the south which include a portion of the Riverside/San Bernardino County line. Included within the Valley District are all or portions of the Cities of Rialto, Fontana, Colton, San Bernardino, Grand Terrace, Loma Linda, Highland, Redlands, and Yucaipa. This boundary also encompasses all or portions of the communities of Bloomington, Mentone, Oak Glen, Lytle Creek, Muscoy, Barton Flats and Reche Canyon, which are all within unincorporated areas of San Bernardino and Riverside Counties.
