

EXPLORING the SALTON SEA

A San Bernardino County Museum Association Field Trip to the Salton Sea with Museum Director Robert McKernan

Saturday, February 11, 2006

7:00 a.m. to about 6:00 p.m.

Join Museum Director Robert McKernan in an unforgettable day exploring the geography and wildlife at the Salton Sea. The Salton Sea is the largest inland surface water body in California and has been one of the state's most productive sport fisheries. The National Wildlife Refuge at the south end of the sea is a major stop on the Pacific Flyway. The Salton Sea supports one of the most diverse population in the United States, with more than 375 species. The Salton Sea is one of the most impressive areas in the nation for observing wintering bird life.

This day trip is a unique opportunity to learn about the natural history of the Salton Basin in the company of Robert McKernan, not just the museum director but an ornithologist who has conducted research at the Salton Sea for more than 30 years and has led hundreds of field trips to the area. Space is very limited and early reservations are required. Suggested ages are teens and adults.

The cost of $50/person ($60 for non-members of the Museum Association) includes transportation from the museum, coffee and muffins, lunch at a regional Mexican restaurant, snacks, and water.

Space is limited, and pre-paid reservations are required.
