ORO GRANDE — An employee at a local cement plant was safely rescued after he was trapped in an exterior elevator hundreds of feet from the ground on Monday afternoon, authorities said.

San Bernardino County Fire Department personnel responded to requests for a rescue at the CalPortland Oro Grande Cement Plant, 19409 National Trails Highway, around 2 p.m. Monday after an employee found himself trapped inside an exterior elevator.

The elevator was 200 feet up from the ground, County Fire officials said, and an urban search-and-rescue team was dispatched to assist elevator technicians in getting the man safely down.

“We often respond to elevator rescues throughout the county and work closely with elevator technicians during these rescues,” County Fire spokesman Eric Sherwin said. “We’re available if medical aid is needed or on those times the technicians can’t repair the elevator, we’re there to effect any rescue that can take place.”

Fortunately for the trapped employee, personnel were able to get him to safety by 4:30 p.m. Monday. No injuries were reported.
