UPLAND >> The move to disband Upland's fire department continued Monday night as city leaders unanimously approved an agreement with employee groups outlining the terms for layoffs.

Upland began the process to annex its fire department into San Bernardino County Fire's service area in November.

All 47 fire department employees would be guaranteed employment as long as they meet the county's hiring requirements, Deputy City Manager Jeannette Vagnozzi said.

"In order to move forward with the annexation, there's a number of things that have to be put in place," she said.

In December, Upland sent an application to the Local Agency Formation Commission — the agency that oversees annexations — to begin the transfer process of 10,000 acres of property, employees, assets, liabilities and responsibilities to county fire.

Monday's side letter agreement with the Upland Fire Management Association, Upland Firefighters Association and Upland City Employees Association had to be approved before the March 23 commission hearing in San Bernardino.

As part of the terms of the agreement with the three bargaining groups, Upland estimates it will have to pay out $680,000. At its Feb. 13 meeting, the City Council committed $450,000 for labor negotiations and another $1.3 million for fire annexation costs.

On Monday night, the council also agreed to appropriate these funds into the current budget so staff can pay for any necessary expenses, including $680,000 for the agreements, as part of the transition, Vagnozzi said.

"There's a great deal of appreciation for the effort made by the fire employees, all levels, and the city staff in reaching this point," Councilman Gino Filippi said.

Mayor Debbie Stone said the annexation of the fire department has been a lengthy and complex process.

“It goes without saying that we are thankful for all the efforts that have been put into this process to reach this agreement,” she said. “It’s not been easy for this council at all. ... Thank you for everyone involved and understanding.”

The letter agrees to the following:

- Benefits: Employees were concerned there would be a gap in their health coverage between leaving one agency to the other. Upland has agreed to work with county fire to ensure there are no gaps.
- Paid absences: In a layoff situation, employees are entitled to receive their accrued vacation time. But other benefits, such as sick leave, are not entitlements, and it is not mandatory that the city pay out those benefits employees have accrued, she said.

County fire has agreed to allow Upland fire employees to transfer their vacation leave as either sick, vacation or holiday time. A maximum of 96 hours can be transferred for each category. If an employee has vacation time left over, it will be cashed out as part of the final paycheck.

- Personnel file review: Upland has agreed to expunge any disciplinary actions from its personnel files prior to 2012 even though employees asked for anything prior to 2015.
- Injuries/disabilities: Any employees who may be injured or have an industrial disability that would prevent them from going to the county would be allowed to file for industrial disability retirement. If any retiring employee doesn’t meet the requirements for industrial disability retirement, then they will be laid off, according to the staff report.
- Severance: Employees of the Upland Firefighters Association and the one employee who belongs to the Upland City Employees Association will be entitled to the equivalent of a two months’ severance package. Members of the management association will receive the equivalent of a three months’ severance package, Vagnozzi said.
- Waiver: Employees from all three bargaining groups have agreed to waive all claims and future litigation with the city over the annexation process.

“If they meet the qualifications and they want to work for the county, they have a job,” Vagnozzi said.

The Redlands Fire Department responded to a structure fire Monday afternoon. A family of five was displaced but no injuries were reported.

At about 3:30 p.m. Monday, March 13, firefighters responded to reports of a structure fire in the 1600 block of Sheffield Lane. Arriving units discovered a large two-story house well involved with fire in the attic and on the first floor.

Firefighters initiated an aggressive interior attack to quench the stubborn blaze. Approximately 10 minutes after their arrival, firefighters were evacuated from the residence when the second story began to collapse. Heavy caliber hose streams eventually brought the fire under control.

Redlands Firefighters were assisted by units from San Manuel, San Bernardino County and Loma Linda Fire departments.

There were no reported injuries and the cause remains under investigation.

The fire displaced a family of five and the Red Cross was called to provide assistance. Estimated loss to the structure and contents is more than $400,000.

SAN BERNARDINO >> Once a gathering spot for locals, the former J's Restaurant is now just a shell of a building after fire gutted the boarded-up, A-frame structure late Monday night.

Shortly before 11 p.m., firefighters received multiple 911 calls citing heavy smoke and fire coming from a structure at 250 E. Highland Ave.

They found the former diner fully involved and began to attack the blaze from all sides. Flames lit the night sky and could be seen from as far as City Hall.

A second alarm rang out, sending firefighters from all over the city to assist the units first on scene.

It took firefighters approximately 30 minutes to knock down the flames and put the fire out.

Investigators on the scene said the cause of the fire is under investigation but it appears to be suspicious in nature.

No injuries were reported.
