The Fontana Police Department and the San Bernardino County Fire Department responded to an accident in the northern part of Fontana on June 16.

At about 10:50 p.m., a silver Ford Excursion and a silver Toyota Corolla collided in the intersection at Beech Avenue and Falcon Ridge.

Both drivers had conflicting stories on how the accident happened, according to a Fontana P.D. officer at the scene.

The intersection is controlled by a traffic signal.

There were no injuries.

The Fontana P.D. is investigating the collision.

Two people were dead after a single-engine plane crashed south of Hesperia Airport Friday afternoon.

The Beechcraft Bonanza aircraft had apparently burst into flames upon impact at 7070 Summit Valley Road and sparked a brush fire in the surrounding vegetation, according to the Federal Aviation Administration and authorities in San Bernardino County. However, the flames were extinguished within an hour after the crash, which occurred shortly after 5 p.m.

Both victims were found inside the plane and declared deceased at the scene, San Bernardino County fire officials said. Their identities had not been released.

All that was left of the craft were its charred wings and a smudge of debris on the roadway, aerial video showed.

Some of the wreckage struck a vehicle that was heading down Summit Valley Road at the time, the San Bernardino County Sheriff's Department said in a news release. Though the car was damaged, its occupants were not harmed.

Southern California Edison also responded to downed wires in the area, authorities said.

Summit Valley Road south of Los Flores Street would be closed through the night as a result, officials said. Commuters and those heading to the airport were advised to use alternate routes.

The crash site was about a quarter mile south of the airport, said Tony Molinaro, a spokesperson for the FAA. The FAA, National Transportation Safety Board and the Sheriff's Department were responding to the scene to investigate.

Anyone with information on the crash can contact sheriff's investigators at 760-947-1500.

June 16--Two people were found dead after a small plane crashed on Summit Valley Road in Hesperia and ignited a small spot fire Friday evening, according to San Bernardino County fire officials.

The single-engine Beechcraft Bonanza went down shortly after 5 p.m. on Summit Valley Road near Los Flores Road in the area south of Hesperia Airport, according to Eric Sherwin, a county fire spokesman. Firefighters found two occupants inside the plane dead.

The Bonanza "crashed this evening under unknown circumstances" about a quarter mile south of Hesperia Airport," according to Tony Molinaro, Federal Aviation Administration spokesman. He had no information about where the plane was coming from nor where it was headed.

The plane caught fire which ignited a small spot brush fire, Sherwin said. Firefighters were able to knock down the fire by 5:45 p.m.

Southern California Edison personnel are on scene to assist. Southern California Edison personnel was also on scene to assist with downed electrical wires.

A vehicle traveling on Summit Valley Road was damaged when it was struck by debris from the crash, according to a San Bernardino County sheriff's news release.

Summit Valley Road south of Los Flores was shut down and expected it to remain closed throughout the night, according to sheriff's officials.

The Aviator Cafe at Hesperia Airport posted a message on Facebook announcing that it would be closed Friday evening due to the plane crash.

The Federal Aviation Administration and National Transportation Safety Board have been notified, according to county fire officials. Officials from both agencies were en route the scene for investigation, sheriff's officials said in a release sent out just after 7:30 p.m.

Further information about the occupants or what caused the plane to go down wasn't immediately available. Hesperia sheriff's station officials suggested citizens avoid the area while the investigation is underway.

Anyone with information about the crash can contact the sheriff's Hesperia station at 760-947-1500.

(Victor Valley News)

VICTORVILLE, Calif. (VVNG.com) — Authorities are investigating a stabbing that left one man injured Father's Day Sunday.

It happened at about 8:40 pm, at the Greenbriar Mobile Home Park in the 14100 block of Palmdale Road in Victorville.

Victorville Sheriff's Deputies along with Firefighters from San Bernardino County Fire responded and treated a 49-year-old male who was bleeding heavily from his left shoulder. Due to his injuries and level of care required, firefighters requested the victim be airlifted to an out of area trauma center, scanner traffic reported.

According to officials, the suspect is a female and left the scene prior to deputies arriving. The California Highway Patrol helicopter H80 responded to the scene and assisted ground deputies as they searched for the suspect.

Deputies taped-off the entrance to the mobile home park as they investigate the incident. Details surrounding the stabbing are unknown at this time.

The story is developing and information will be updated as it becomes available.
