Hello I am a resident of Chino's District 4 in the Preserve area south of the Chino airport. The current suggested polling place of the Chino Airport is very isolated and not in a population center. If I were attempting to suppress the vote of a particular area this is the tactic I would use. There is a community center at 15800 Main St, Chino, CA 91708 this is in the heart of a thriving community. If you are looking for a location to enhance the voter turnout this would be the location. I am a candidate for Chino City Council in district 4 and I do believe moving the polling location out of the community will rob many of our residents the opportunity to vote. Looking at the map the polling place is in District 3 of the city. Very inconvenient for working families that have long commutes.
